While he was staying in Clarenville he went out to Harbour Breton for a few months. From Clarenville he went to Harbour Grace for three years from 1984 to 1987. A promotion had him move once again, this time to Bonavista for a 4-year posting, from 1987 to 1991. After he finished his service there, he went back to Harbour Grace for 10 months. Then on to Port Saunders on the Great Northern Peninsula from 1992 to 1995, His final two years of service was spent in Holyrood from 1995-1997, then after twenty-seven years of active service, he retired in 1997.

Ike is retired in his hometown of Bay Roberts. In 1971, he married Bernice (Hussey), and they have three children. On a little personal note, Ike is an outdoors person; he loves to hunt and fish. Moose Hunting is a special time, that he and Bernice both enjoy. But it's fishing he revels in whether that's out cod fishing, salmon angling or beside a quiet pond trout. It is one of his favorite pastimes. His time on the Northern peninsula where you catch big trout has spoiled him and he returns to the area to fish every chance he gets. It was a special adventure for him and his dad. Trips to the Northern Peninsula to fish, a time they spent together each summer for some twenty years or more.
